

Group Financial Controller

Channel Islands

With a blue-chip client base, including many of the FTSE 100 companies, a strong customer service ethos and multi-jurisdictional reach, our client is a prominent market leader in the provision of offshore legal, trust administration and outsourced advisory services. The company has an enviable reputation for quality, success and innovation, as well as a growing international presence and an integral part of its growth and development strategy now involves the appointment of a high calibre Group Financial Controller.

Reporting to the Financial Director, and working closely with and supporting key individuals at both Group and Business levels, you will have overall responsibility for the day-to-day management of the central finance function within a decentralised management structure. This will entail responsibility for financial and management accounting, business planning and forecasting, financial systems and budgetary control, as well as analysing and interpreting key financial information and contributing enthusiastically towards the delivery of business objectives. It will also entail anticipating and addressing accounting and other issues, whilst ensuring that the fundamentals of stewardship and control are adhered to in line with best practice, during a period of rapid change and international expansion.

You will ideally be a "big firm" trained, graduate Chartered Accountant, with both audit and plc accounting experience, as well as a strong track record of financial management and success in either a financial or professional services environment. As well as having excellent technical, leadership and interpersonal skills, you should be highly adaptable with a confident manner and record of achievement in a rapidly growing and changing organisation. Proactive, quality driven and commercially aware, you will be a strong team player, possessing first class analytical, organisational and communication skills, together with the drive and stature to succeed in a demanding, fast moving business.

This is an outstanding opportunity to join a forward thinking, progressive company during an exciting period of its development and contribute strongly towards its future success.
